

Redeia is launching its new digital transformation project for suppliers: Towards a 360° vision

At Redeia we are embarking on a new phase in managing our supply chain with the launch of an ambitious digital transformation project.

The goal of the project is to improve the processes of classifying, rating and managing supplier risks, putting us in line with the highest market standards and responding to the commitments made in the wake of the supplier perception survey carried out in 2024.

This transformation project will consist of several phases:

1. Phase 1 Supply chain risk management, in collaboration with our partner Achilles - Go Supply, will set up a free platform so that suppliers can complete a full questionnaire. This will enable us to assess key aspects in the spheres of business, operations, compliance, ESG, finance and geographical location.
2. Phase 2 from September 2025: Supply chain risk management in terms of Security, in which Redeia's own model is incorporated in the same Achilles - Go Supply platform to assess risks related with cybersecurity, information security and physical security.

The platform will enable companies to compare their practices with other organisations, identify opportunities for improvement and reinforce their strategies. For further information or enquiries, please consult our FAQ or write to us at: asa@ree.es

To facilitate the process, you can download the Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ) document here: <https://www.redeia.com/en/about-us/suppliers>